ASIAN SPIRITS THROUGH THE AGES

Asian spirits such as sake, shōchū, umeshu, and soju have been popular for centuries in their home countries. Sake, also spelled saké, is an alcoholic beverage made by fermenting rice that has been polished to remove the bran. Shōchū is the most popular Japanese spirit that has been produced since the 16th century. It is distilled from fermented koji mold and various basic ingredients such as barley, sweet potatoes, rice, buckwheat, brown sugar, as well as sesame, chestnuts, carrots, or perilla leaves. Umeshu is a Japanese liqueur made by macerating sugar and ume plums in alcohol. Korean soju is distilled from fermented rice, or optionally wheat, barley, sweet potatoes, or tapioca.

Aperitifs

LIGHT AND REFRESHING

For those who have never indulged in this sort of drink, here are a few basics: An aperitif (the word comes from the Latin aperire, “to open”) is a light, most often dry and modestly alcoholic beverage meant to spark the appetite without overwhelming the senses. And while an aperitif may be as simple as a glass of dry white wine or Champagne, a true aperitif, the kind that we love, has a little more flair, more flavor, more color and yes, a bit more sophistication.

Spirits

DISTILLED FRUITS

Distilled spirits, refers to an alcoholic beverage that is obtained from the distillation of grapes and other fermented fruits. FRANCE

DEMANDIS XO ARMAGNAC

There's something almost grassy about the nose, followed by a heavy waft of vanilla and a smidge of coffee. To sip, you get creamy fudge, a little banana, prunes, and roasted notes, all with an exceptionally long, smooth but chewy finish

Vodka

POTATO, RYE & WHEAT

Produced by the fermentation of a range of different starches. The major producers of vodka are Russia, Poland, and Sweden. This 'aqua vitae' or 'water of life' as is known by its Latin name is the most commonly used spirit. Though it's traditionally drunk "neat", its odorless, colorless profile makes it the preferred choice for cocktail bars and it is known as a ladies-choice spirit.

RUSSIAN STANDARD ORIGINAL

Cereal flavors of grains of wheat, and pepper. Full-bodied, long and flavorful

RUSSIA

STOLICHNAYA

Has a typical vodka aroma — a touch of alcohol backed by notes of warm grain. The entry is bright and airy, leading to a silky palate with an initial tolerable bite that melts into a warm vodka taste, complete with a citrus peel kiss

SWEDEN

ABSOLUT BLUE

Some light grain aromas. As you taste, the vodka is soft and plush. Finish is peppery and not very long lasting. The heat from alcohol is noticeable

DENMARK

DANZKA

USA

Clean, black peppery spice and faint brown bread with even fainter cream of soda vanilla and liquorice

POLAND

ZUBROWKA

Its wonderfully complex profile of bison grass, chamomile, green apples, lavender, vanilla, and almonds make it a truly unique, natural, and authentic product

Rum

MALAISES & SUGAR CANE

The production first started in the sugar cane fields of the Caribbean and moved into the drier regions of south America in the 1700's. These two distinctly different climatic regions produce two very different profiles of rum. One being more tropical and the other being crisper and dry. Known as 'the grog of the pirates' rum in its most basic form was a staple drink of choice on the seas and was believed to be a remedy in warding off scurvy.

CARIBBEAN

PLANTATION 3 STARS WHITE

Delicate scents of brown sugar, honey, coffee bean; later whiffs following further aeration encounter baking spices: vanilla, and cloves

CARIBBEAN

PLANTATION ORIGINAL DARK

CUBA

HAVANA CLUB ANEJO 3 YRS

Spicy, with a mix of tropical spice, vanilla, oak char, hints of loam tobacco and a deep depth of complexity with the alcohol very much in the background

PUERTO RICO

BACARDI CARTA BLANCA

Very fresh with zippy lemon notes to the fore and a hint of pear drops. Palate is pure and clean, with a pleasant citrus flavor

BRAZIL

CACHAÇA 51

Sweet vanilla cream, seaweed, cut grass, honey, black pepper, and a hint of lemon. The mouthfeel is a bit watery with a moderate bitterness that coats the mid and upper palate. The medium length finish is fairly bitter with an unpleasant saccharin note

CACHAÇA PITÚ

Yields the classic cachaça aromas: fresh cut grass, brine, and black olives. There is also a bit of sweet corn and pepper. The spirit enters with a smokiness that was not apparent on nosing, and there is momentarily a mezcal-like character before the grass takes over

Whiskey

BARLEY AND WHEAT

Made from the fermentation and distillation of grains, yeast, and sugars, aged in wooden casks, which gives them their distinct coloring. The art of whiskey production was mastered in Europe in the cold climates of Ireland and Scotland but is now a global focus with distinct contributions from USA and Japan. Its long-standing history in cocktail bars was made possible by the prohibition era.
